The trapeze acrobat gave another exhibition of his skill in that line yesterday afternoon. Before giving his performance he paraded the streets in costumes on horseback "with rings on his fingers and bells on his toes." His financial success was not amazing.

The two young Mr. McWhorters, from your town, are teaching for us in Catawba this winter. They appear to be very nice, quiet young men, and are making a very good impression upon patrons and scholars. But I fear that it will be a little lonely for them over here, but we will see to feeding well and try and keep them in good order if we can. —Salem Sentinel.

Yesterday in the county court the case of commonwealth vs. Paulina Smith, charged with selling liquor without license, was heard and the accused pleaded "not guilty," and the jury after hearing the evidence retired and in a short while brought in a verdict of acquittal. The account of Jos. A. Owens for $20.35 was allowed "as a part of the $250 heretofore appropriated to the Cave Spring district" for the improvement of the road from Roanoke to Bent Mountain. There being no other business court adjourned to meet this morning at 11 o'clock.

The ladies of the Lutheran congregation of South View will give a social and birthday fete at the residence of Rev. W. S. McClanahan next Friday evening and Saturday afternoon and evening, October 25 and 26. The object is a pleasant social to raise funds for the completion of the new Lutheran church at South View. A cordial invitation is extended to the public in general and it is hoped that this very worthy cause will be liberally supported. Wm. Montgomery and the Roberts brothers, of Salem, will assist in contributing music.

Rev. Dr. George B. Taylor, of Rome, is visiting his brother, Rev. J. B. Taylor. He has had charge of the Baptist Missions in Italy for the past twenty-two years, having been called to that position by the foreign mission board while he was pastor in Staunton in 1873. He reached New York in August, expecting to remain in this country a few weeks. About six weeks ago, while on a visit to his son in Appomattox, Dr. Taylor was thrown from a vehicle and received injuries which at first were supposed to be fatal, but is now recovering, though still weak. His trip to this place yesterday was the first time he has been out since the accident. Dr. Taylor has twice served as chaplain of the University of Virginia. —Salem Sentinel.

THE readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

ONE THOUGHTLESS HOUR.

How a Glad Vacation Was Followed by Bitter Pain.

A Treacherous Enemy—A Common Experience and the Lesson It Contains for People Fond of Living Out of Doors.

A young man in Philadelphia was fatally injured not long ago by so innocent a thing as a cuff button. He fell in such a manner that the button was driven deep into the flesh of his wrist. The wound though painful, was not considered dangerous, and no great precaution was considered necessary until signs of lockjaw appeared. Then, of course, all treatment was useless.

This is one example of the power for mischief of little things. Here is another less dramatic, but more common and, therefore, more impressive. People who went from town to country in the beautiful summer of 1895, delighted to spend most of their time out of doors. They even lay on the soft grass at night, watching the stars and enjoying the cool breeze. It, upon rising, a man found his back stiff he said, "I must have been in one position too long." If the stiffness persisted until the next day he said, "I guess I must have taken a little cold."

But now vacations are over and the autumn is well advanced. That soreness and weakness in the lower part of the back continues and with them are other disorders. Shivering and fever alternate, there is an unconquerable feeling of lassitude at times, the urine is opaque and sometimes bloody, the skin is pallid and the face bloated just beneath the eyes. Digestion is poor and the appetite almost gone.

Let us look the matter in the face without flinching. This is more than a little cold, although in the beginning it was only a sudden checking of the action of the skin and kidneys. Now it is the dreaded Bright's disease, a foe to life quite as deadly as consumption. Common sense would dictate that no time be lost in vain regrets that more prudence was not exercised in the country. Let us find a remedy if we can.

We are fortunate to know that Warner's Safe Cure will bring back health and energy, and the normal action of the kidneys. It is the function of the kidneys to expel from the system broken down tissues in the form of urea and uric acid, together with certain salts that have done their work. No other organ than the kidneys can rid the body of this death laden matter. Congested, inflamed kidneys act as a drain to keep poison in the system.

What makes Warner's Safe Cure the wonder and admiration of the medical profession, is its power to soothe the inflammation in the kidneys and to allay the congestion so that the urine, once more healthy in color and consistency, carries away the waste freely and promptly.

One does not necessarily die soon of Bright's disease. He may lead a miserable uncertain invalid life for years. But what weary dragging years they are! Let the sufferer shake off his burden of sickness and suspense. He will find hope and health in Warner's Safe Cure.

THERE is one medicine which every family should be provided with. We refer to Chamberlain's Pain Balm. When it is kept at hand the severe pain of a burn or scald may be promptly relieved and the sore healed in much less time than when medicine has to be sent for. A sprain may be promptly healed, before inflammation sets in, which insures a cure in about one-third the time otherwise required. Cuts and bruises should receive immediate attention, before the parts become swollen, and when Chamberlain's Pain Balm is applied it will heal them without matter being formed, and without leaving a scar. A sore throat may be cured in one night. A piece of flannel dampened with this liniment and bound on over the seat of pain will cure lame back or pain in the side or chest in twenty-four hours. It is the most valuable, however, for rheumatism. Persons afflicted with this disease will be delighted with the prompt relief from pain which it affords, and it can be depended upon to effect a complete cure. For sale by The Chas. VINTON.

Miss Fannie Vinyard died at the residence of Julius Wingfield yesterday morning at 3 o'clock, after an illness of several weeks of typhoid fever. Her funeral will be preached at 11 o'clock this morning at the Methodist Church by Rev. G. T. D. Collins, after which her remains will be interred in the family burying ground. She leaves an aged mother, three sisters and three brothers. She had many friends who will sadly miss her.

Willie Strother, little daughter of Mrs. W. G. Kiser, has been quite sick, but is now convalescent.

WILL NOT SUPPORT HARDIN.

Cassius M. Clay, Jr., Objects to His Free Silver Views.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 22.—The Hon. Cassius M. Clay, Jr., of Paris, Ky., who made the race for the nomination for governor of Kentucky with Gen. P. Witt Hardin, the Democratic candidate, and who was defeated in the convention by a small majority, came out to-day in a letter to the Democratic campaign committee refusing to speak in behalf of Hardin, the free silver candidate on a sound money platform.

He charges Hardin with repudiating the Democratic convention's platform and will not vote for him. He also states in his letter that a change in the control of affairs at Frankfort, and the abolishment of the State-house ring would be of great benefit to the State. The card is not bitter in tone but is the plain statement of a sound money candidate who objects to repudiation of the sound money platform by a free silver candidate.

Southern Railway Directors Elected. RICHMOND, Va., Oct. 22.—At the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Southern Railway held here this morning the following directors were chosen for the ensuing year: Alexander B. Andrews, Raleigh, N. C.; A. L. Boulware, Richmond; Charles H. Coster, Harrisburg, Pa.; Thomas F. Ryan, Sam Spencer, Anthony J. Thomas, Samuel Thomas, of New York; Skipwith Wilmer, Baltimore.

A New Steamship Line.

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—A new first-class steamship line between Palm Beach, Fla., and Nassau, N. D. will be in operation in January next by the Florida East Coast railway. This positive announcement is first made to-day through Jaudon Browne, the New York representative of that system. Vessels will ply weekly between the points named.

A. K. Ward Indicted.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct. 22.—A. K. Ward, the absconding manager and treasurer of the Memphis Barrel and Heading Company, has been indicted for forgery. Ward is now thought to be in Honduras.

A Novel Idea.

It is free, and deeply interests everybody who has aches or pains, or who is weak and sickly. Anyone can learn the surest and quickest means to get strong and well by accepting that splendid free offer of the great specialist in curing nervous and chronic diseases, Dr. Greene, of 35 West 14th St., New York City. He has established a system of letter correspondence through which all sick and suffering people can learn exactly what ails them, and how to get well, without expense and without leaving their homes. All they have to do is to write to the Doctor, stating each symptom from which they are suffering, and he will answer their letter, explaining their case thoroughly, telling just what the trouble is and what to do to be cured. He gives the greatest care and attention to every letter, and tells the cause of each symptom so plainly that patients understand instantly just what ails them. And all this for nothing. It is a splendid opportunity for those who cannot afford the time or expense to go to the city. Dr. Greene makes a specialty of curing patients through letter correspondence. He is the most successful specialist in curing nervous and chronic diseases, and is the discoverer of that wonderful medicine, Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. Those who write to him get cured.

Sticking to the Text.

An actor, while playing in a small village, was representing the part of a persecuted guardian of an orphan heir, says London Tri-Bits. Of course the pursuers are on his track and bent on killing him in order to secure the inheritance. For a long time he escapes; at length he is seized and thrown into a room, the three doors of which are then locked and bolted. On recovering himself he runs to one door and shakes it. "Locked!" He then runs to the second. "Locked!" He runs to the third, which opens readily at the first effort. The actor shuts it again with a bang and exclaims, in a tone of yet deeper despair, "Locked!" Thundering applause.

Young Grossmith Coming Over.

Young George Grossmith, son of his admirable and humorous father, is coming over with "The Shop Girl" company, and he is going to bring with him his bride, Miss Adelaide Astor. Miss Astor is no relative of the New York Astors. She is just as pleased, and probably considers herself quite as lucky, to be the sister of Letty Lind, the nimble skirt dancer. Young Grossmith is said to inherit a good deal of the talent of his father and his Uncle Woodson. If he can combine the humor of those two ultra amusing gentlemen "The Shop Girl" will be even more valuable than it promises to be.

Roses in a Tomb Five Thousand Years Old.

Plinders Petrie, the archaeologist, while excavating among some ancient Egyptian tombs, found a wreath of roses which had been bound into a garland and buried with the dead thousands of years ago. M. Crepin, the botanist and microscopist, made a careful examination of this queer find and prepared a paper on it, which he read before the Royal society of Belgium. From this paper it appears that in places where the flowers were matted together they still retained their color as well as a very faint odor. The species to which they belong is now extinct, but a rose resembling them in several particulars is still grown in Egypt and Abyssinia. —St. Louis Republic.

NEW DRESSES FROM OLD.

An Ohio Woman's Common Sense Saved Her Money.

A Way of Home Dyeing that is Simple, Easy and Economical—Diamond Dyes Make Good Colors and Do Not Fade. Crock or Wash Out—How to Color Gowns, Suits or Wraps With Little Expense.

In a letter written last month by Georgia Hook, Paintersville, Green Co., O., she says: "I had colored an old tan dress last fall that I had worn all summer, and had a nice, black dress. My girl friends went nearly wild over it, and they were so astonished when I told them it was my old tan dress colored with Diamond Dyes. Several of them tried the dyes on their white cashmeres and all of them had nice looking black gowns."

"I have used a great many Diamond Dyes for cotton, wool and silk, and have met with unvarying success. Last week I used a dozen packages in coloring cotton for rugs, and made two beautiful rugs. I have tried other package dyes, but never with the success that I have had with the Diamond. I have never failed once with the Diamond Dyes, and I do not think any one could, if they pay attention to the directions that come with each package."

Diamond Dyes are especially prepared for home use, and are guaranteed to be the strongest, fastest and easiest to use of all dyes. To get the best colors it is necessary to use different dyes for wool and for cotton, and Diamond Dyes are especially prepared for each. Insist on having Diamond Dyes, and you will always have colors that will not fade.

A book of directions and forty samples of colored cloth will be mailed free. Write, Richardson & Co., Burlington, Vt.

EMILY SOLDENE.

The Old Time Favorite Prima Donna Has Not Deserted the Stage.

The rising generation of theatergoers have only a vague recollection of Emily Soldene, who was a decade or two ago one of the greatest favorites in the English speaking world in the prima donna roles of light opera and the better class of burlesque. She won especial distinction in the works of Offenbach, her most serious effort perhaps having been "La Grande Duchesse." She was also particularly successful as Boulotte in "Barbe Bleue," "Général de Brabant" and "La Fille de Mme. Angot."

Miss Soldene was born in the Islington district of London and is proud to be regarded as a thorough cockney. Her relatives were all strict church people who were horrified at the idea of her adopting the stage as a profession. Miss Soldene has been on this mundane sphere for a good many years—just how many she will not say. As a child she was noted for her vocal precocity. She was trained by Howard Glover of London, and, reprehensible as it may appear, was delighted when Julia Matthews was compelled by illness to retire from the cast of "La Grande Duchesse," for it gave Miss Soldene her first opportunity to make an impression. That she took advantage of it to the full is evidenced by the fact that she was offered another excellent engagement and was thereafter always in demand for important productions. Her earnings for each year during a long portion of her career are said to have amounted to more than the salary of the president of the United States.

Some years ago Miss Soldene retired from the stage and devoted her time to literature. She did some work for American newspapers, but her greatest journalistic achievements were in Australia, where she is a great favorite. She is now in London, and it is currently stated that she will there organize a mammoth high class burlesque company which she will first bring to this country for a tour, after which it will be taken to Australia. Miss Soldene is about to publish a novel which, owing to the fact that it is said to be in part a replica of her own career, is awaited with great interest.

Animals That Commit Suicide.

Intelligent observers have testified to facts which appear to show that in certain circumstances the snake, scorpion and even some quadrupeds commit suicide. M. Henry, a clock manufacturer of Longuey, France, has recently described an experiment of the kind which he made with a wasp. The wasp was imprisoned under a glass, and knowing that benzine asphyxiates insects he put some paper soaked in it beside the captive. The wasp became uncomfortable, then angrily attacked the paper, but finding all its efforts unavailing it finally lay down on its back, and folding up its abdomen planted its sting three times into its body. M. Henry was so curious to confirm the fact that, in spite of his humane feelings, he repeated the experiment on three wasps with the like result. —London Globe.

Success of Sothern's New Play.

Daniel Frohman says: "The Prisoner of Zenda" is as big as any success that has been made under my management, and E. H. Sothern could play throughout the entire season in it at the Lyceum, New York, were it not for the return before very long of the Lyceum stock company. But there is more money to be made with the production on tour than in New York, even under the most favorable circumstances." —

WINTER NOVELTIES.

Double Breasted Winter Coats—Long Wraps and Square Collars.

This winter's jackets affect various forms. They are most often straight and double breasted and fastened with two rows of buttons. The revers and trimmings are in a way of a number of different styles. Embroidery, gold binding or black or gray braiding often entirely covers jackets of light gray cloth. Velvet forms revers and fur a collar or plastron. There are also seen some small, loose jackets among the novelties, but these are not likely to meet with general favor, as their bagginess is not becoming to any figure.

Long, large loose wraps are shown with more or less odd arrangements for allowing freedom to the arms. They are adorned with flat bows, choux, a square collar or a pelerine edged with fur or feathers. Ostleric plumage is to be worn as much as fur, to ornament not merely hats, but gowns and wraps.

Violet seems to be a favorite color for wraps both long and short, and that not a muddy or subdued purplish tone, but the real color of the flower, clear and decided.

Thick taffeta in changeable, glaze and brilliant effects continues to be in great vogue for day costumes, while for evening wear its use is almost unlimited, and there are no indications of a weariness of it. Broche silks with satin stripes on a moire and glaze ground or with broken lines are nearly as well liked.

The wattleau plait is seen on some of the latest rich carriage and evening cloaks of full length.

The illustration shows an elaborate gown of tulle and lace. The bodice is of tulle and lace, and the skirt is of tulle and lace. The gown is very full and has a long train. It is a very elegant and fashionable gown for evening wear.

I have also seen the world, and after long experience have discovered that enmi is our greatest enemy and remunerative labor our most lasting friend.
